A Virtual Editor and Related Methods for Dynamically Generating Personalized Publications

ABSTRACT

5

A document delivery system comprising a data store to receive a plurality of content objects and a virtual editor to dynamically generate a personalized publication for a requesting user. The virtual editor selectively retrieves one or more of the received content objects to construct a personalized publication for a requesting user based, at least 10   in part, on an accessed personal profile associated with the requesting user.